Dmitry Mints leads the annual CRE 100 ranking for the fifth consecutive year

Moscow, 27 April, 2016. - Dmitry Mints, the Chairman of the Management Board of O1 Properties investment company, headed the list of the most influential investors operating on Russia's commercial property market. The ranking was published in an annual edition of CRE-100, a key industry publication. Boris Mints, founder and co-owner of O1 Properties, is also among the TOP 10 most influential landlords, having advanced by one position and took the third place in this year ranking.

As a result of the activities of O1 Properties in 2015 – early 2016, Dmitry Mints for the fifth consecutive year retained the leadership in the “Investments” category. Led by Dmitry, the company implemented an active investment policy and, despite the volatility of the Russian market, managed to maintain the value of its assets to the utmost, to stabilize its debentures, and to continue developing new projects in Moscow.

In particular, in 2015, the shares of O1 Properties were acquired by ICT Group and Andrey Barinskiy and Vladimir Zubrilin, co-owners of Forum Properties, while O1 Group purchased shareholding in Austrian Immofinanz, a major European investor in commercial properties.

The annual CRE-100 rankings are calibrated on the basis of performance and achievements of the individual and the company in 2015 – early 2016. Traditionally, the rankings include 11 sections, each representing the most influential in a particular category, from administration to management companies, throughout 100 leading professionals in the Russian commercial real estate market.
